Hannah Rullo is an associate attorney with Ansbacher Law. Her practice area focuses on assisting condominium and homeowner associations with general matters, including covenant enforcement and restrictions, bylaw enforcement, legal opinions and advice, the transition from developer control, amending declarations, and reviewing contracts.

Ms. Rullo earned her law degree from Florida Coastal School of Law (J.D., 2020), where she received the CALI Award of Medical Malpractice. Prior to attending law school, she earned her Bachelor's Degree in Political Science in 2015.

Raised in Pittsburgh, Hannah and her family spent summers in Crescent Beach from the time she was an infant. She enjoys being an active member of the St. Johns Association for Women Lawyers and the Florida Association for Women Lawyers, walking her dog Beatrice, reading poetry, and going to church.
